

Why is my car incompatible even though it was informed compatible?

eFlexFuel is installed to used vehicles in which components or component properties may have been changed from the original. For this reason, there may be situations where the product is suitable for 99 % of identical cars, but not suitable for 1 %. For example, over-worn parts of the ignition and fuel supply may interfere with the operation of the device so that it does not function in the intended manner.